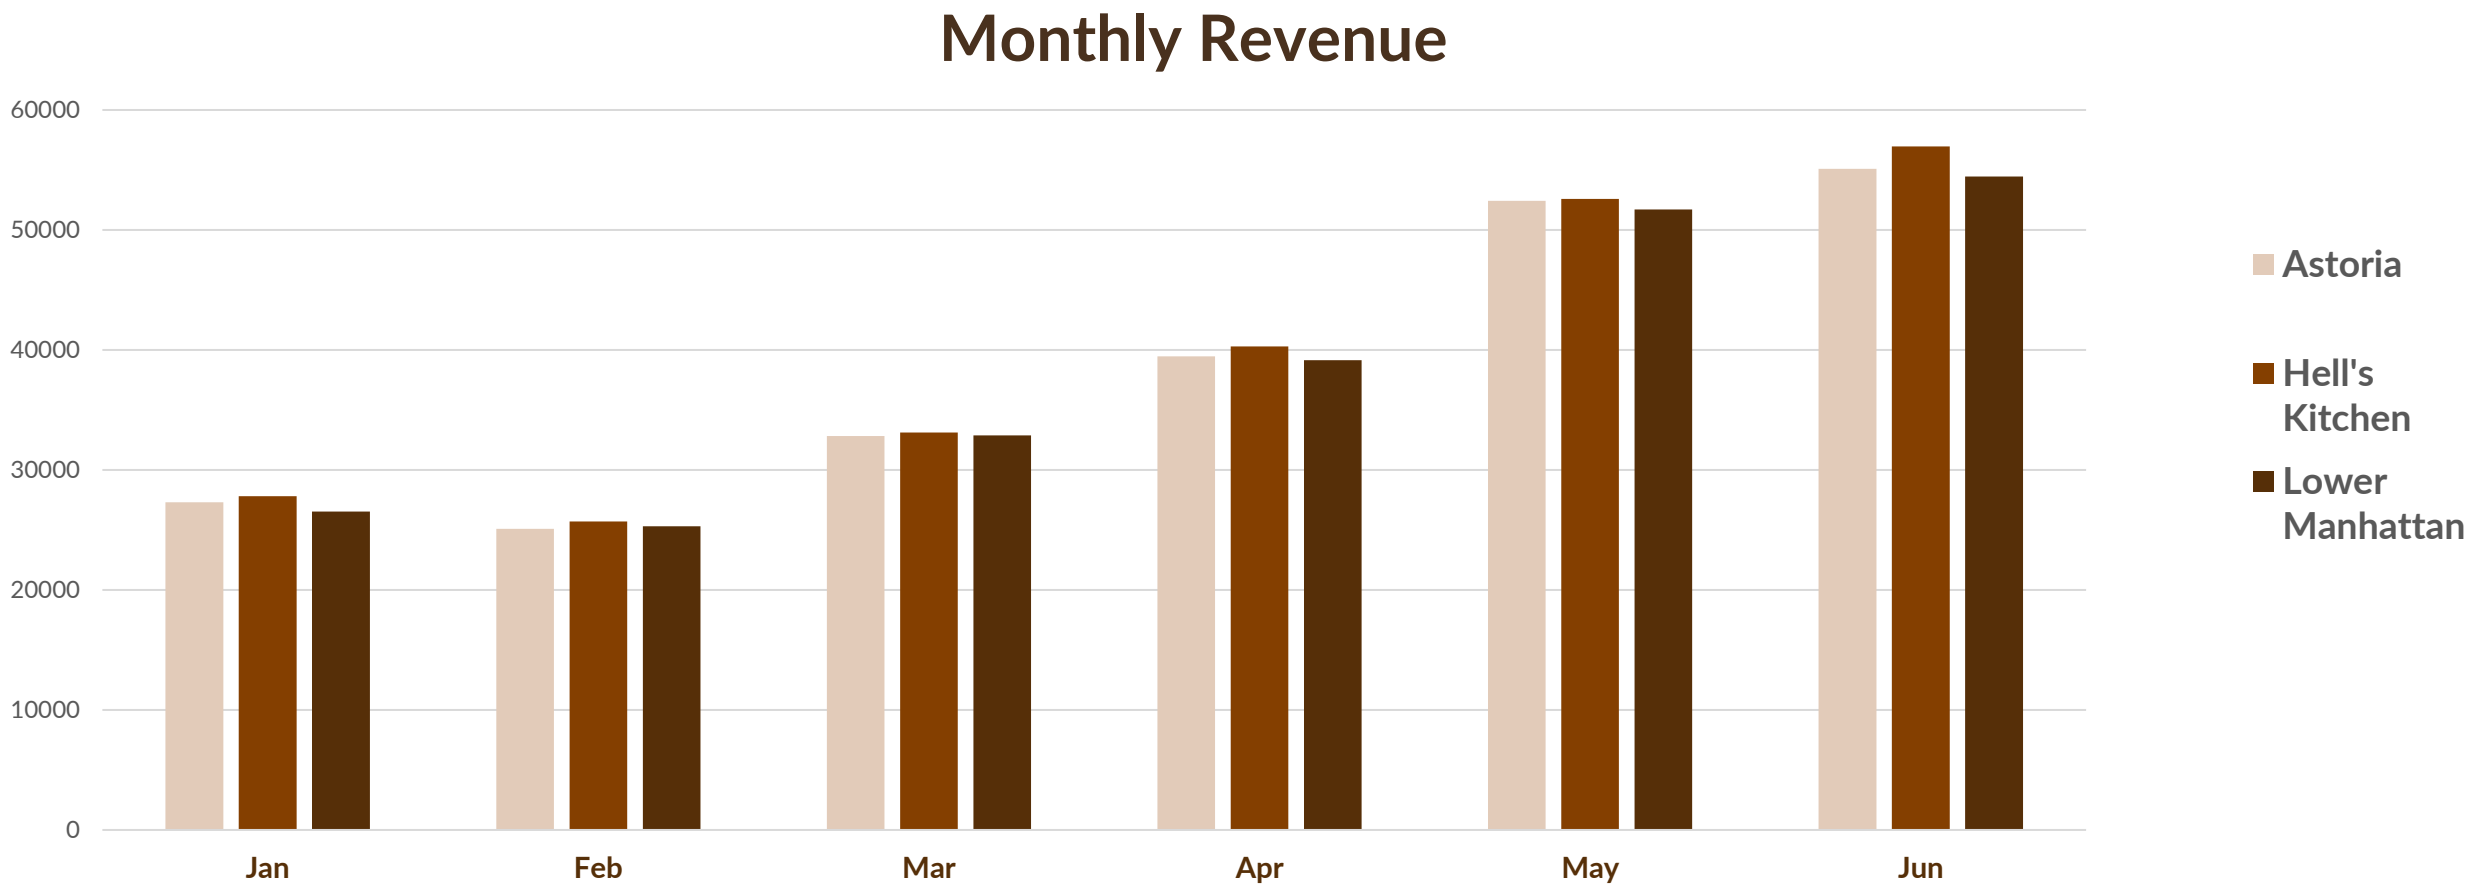
- Analyses and finding
- Key insights
- Recommendations

- Total revenue gradually increased over the period, with February recording the lowest sales and June achieving the highest performance.
- Hell's Kitchen is the most profitable store, Astoria is performing moderately well, while Lower Manhattan is currently underperforming.
- There is a clear upward trend in sales, indicating strong potential for continued revenue growth in the coming months



Revenue by time intervals

- Morning Dominance:
  Over 50% of total revenue is generated during the morning period, making it the most critical time for sales.

- Afternoon Decline:
  Sales drop to approximately 29% in the afternoon, indicating a noticeable slowdown after peak hours.

- Evening Performance:
  The evening records the lowest sales, showing a significant decline in customer activity.

- Possible Reason:
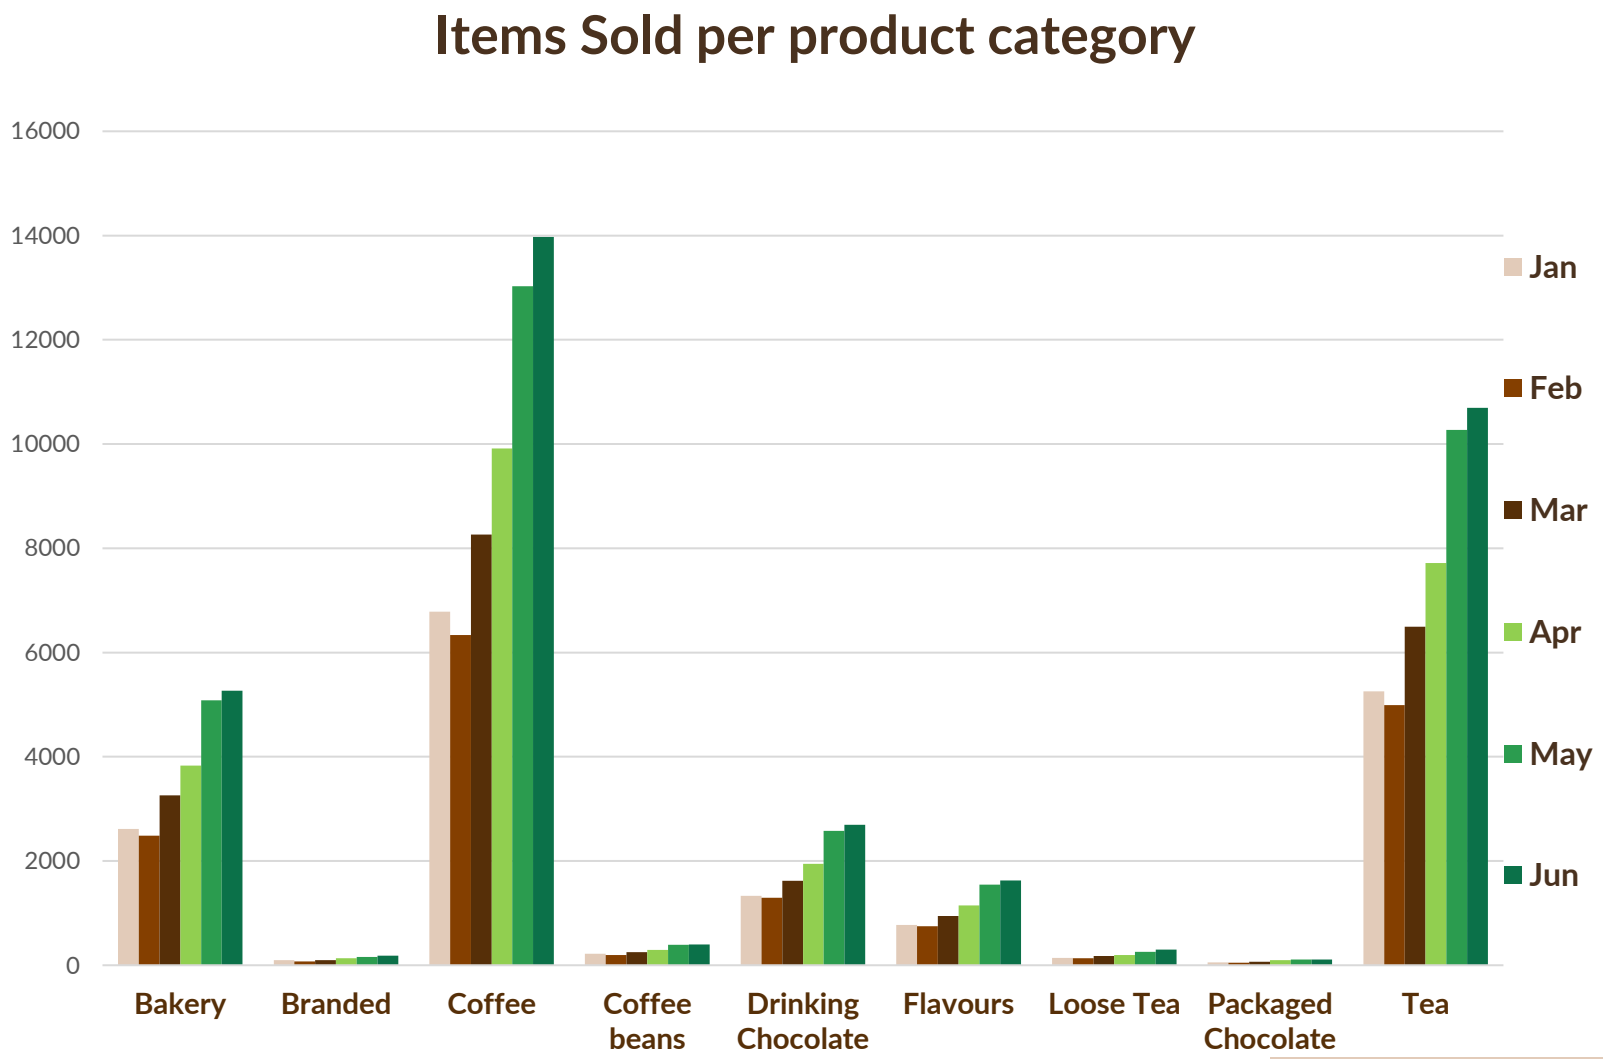
  Lower evening sales may be due to reduced foot traffic, as customers are more likely to be at home during this time.



Product Performance Insights
Top Performing Categories (Best → Good):
Coffee, Tea, and Bakery are the top three product categories, with Coffee being the dominant revenue driver.

Lowest Performing Categories (Worst → Very Worst):
Packaged Chocolate, Branded Tea, and Loose Tea are the weakest performers, with Packaged Tea ranking as the worst-selling product.

Overall Observation:
Product categories are clearly distributed from best to worst performance, highlighting strong reliance on core beverages while some packaged items underperform.

Top 5 Selling Products Insights

- Consistent Growth Across All Products:
  All top 5 products (Cappuccino Lg, Dark Chocolate Lg, Latte Lg, Morning Sunrise Chai Lg, Sustainably Grown Organic Lg) show a steady increase in sales from January to June, indicating strong and growing customer demand.
- Top Revenue Driver:
  Sustainably Grown Organic Lg and Dark Chocolate Lg emerge as the highest-performing products, especially in later months, making them key contributors to overall revenue.
- Strong Beverage Preference:
  The top-selling items are mostly large-sized beverages, highlighting a clear customer preference for premium and larger drink options.

RECOMMENDATIONS

- Maximize Morning Sales Opportunities:
  Since over 50% of revenue comes from mornings, introduce morning promotions, combo deals (coffee + bakery), and loyalty rewards to further boost peak-hour sales.

- Improve Evening Performance:
  Address low evening sales by launching happy hour discounts, evening specials, or targeted promotions to attract customers during off-peak hours.

- Optimize Product Strategy:
  Focus on stocking and promoting top-performing products (e.g., coffee and best-selling beverages), while rebranding, bundling, or discounting underperforming items like packaged tea to improve their sales.
